DISCOVER MILITARY HISTORY

The Military History Trail is just 1.5 hours from Melbourne if you begin at Seymour. Here, you'll find the Vietnam Veterans Commemorative Walk, where the names of more than 60,000 people who served in the Vietnam War are scripted across the 106 glass panels. Vivid photographs create a stirring visual timeline that guide you through one of Australia's most poignant historical moments.

Nearby is the WWI memorial park, where Gallipoli, Peace and RSL roses line the paths, a lone pine tree stands, and the Australian and New Zealand flags proudly fly in honour of the ANZACS. From here, it's just a short drive to the Australian Light Horse Memorial Park, the site of the former Seymour Camp, Victoria's largest military training and staging facility before Puckapunyal opened in 1939.

You'll need photo ID to visit the RAAC Memorial and Army Tank museum, which is within the Australian Army training facility at Puckapunyal. The Graytown Prisoner of War Camp, on Heathcote-Nagambie Road, dates from the Second

The Italian Ossario is in Murchison, a mausoleum commemorating the Italian civilian internees and military Prisoners of War who died during their incarceration in Camps throughout Australia during World War II.

Travel north to explore Tatura and Shepparton, with the Tatura Irrigation & Wartime Camps Museum, the German War Cemetery and the Shepparton & District War Memorial. Two evocative sculptures can be viewed at this memorial. The Helping Hand, by pre-eminent Australian artist Charles Web Gilbert (1867-1925), depicts Private John Raws reaching down to help his brother from a trench on the Western Front. Mateship by Belo Angyal is based on an image taken in New Guinea by renowned World War II photographer Damien Parer (killed in action in the Pacific in 1944).

Benalla, on the banks of the Broken River, is home to memorials commemorating local heroes Sir Edward 'Weary' Dunlop and Captain 'Hec' Waller. Benalla is home to the Benalla Aviation Museum, where you can view a unique collection of military training aircraft.
